MESA

Dear John:

I had spoken to you awhile back about our efforts in Mesa with the Landlord Training Program. Right away, I want to tell you the more I am involved with this program, the more I am impressed with what you have done, and all the work that you do to keep it going.

You may or may not be aware of the recent problems Tucson had with some people claiming "the big, bad police" were teaming up with the "big, bad landlords" to pick on those who were not financially well off, who had no CHOICE but to deal drugs to supplement their incomes.

You might think this is hard to believe, but some group went to the city council down there and protested the program. The city council heeded their concerns and asked the police department to develop the program into a direction that included tenant's rights.

Mesa is a community relations oriented city. When my supervisors saw the articles, they were quite concerned. They were the main reason I worked toward the information I want to present to you. I would ask you to review the (color) highlighted areas of the enclosed sheets of blue paper. I want you to see, I have EVERY intention for crediting you for all of your excellent work. I don't want to take anything away from you. Everytime I present a class, or give an interview, I am committed to mentioning you and Campbell Resources. I am very grateful for all you have done to help me with this program.

Because we wanted to make the program look less geared toward "landlords" only. We wanted to accentuate the benefits of your program that are geared toward the tenants as well. (Such as C.P.T.E.D.)

We also included a "block watch" type training for the tenants as well to get them on our side. We wanted to create a strong coalition between police, the tenants and management. In Arizona, "landlord" means "slumlord". It has a bad ring to it. My lieutenant and sergeant specifically asked me to delete the word landlord.

I told them the program was CALLED The LANDLORD Training program, and I didn't have the RIGHT to change it. I spoke to you briefly at the time, and I have tried to put this off as long as possible, but now I have to face it, and ask you for your input.

Currently all of our books say "Landlord Training Program" just as the proofs I mailed to you awhile back. The new proposed cover for our 2nd edition would read: "Crime Free Multi-Housing Program"

THIS IS PENDING YOUR COMMENTS, by no means a done deal. I have alot of respect for you Mr. Campbell, and I don't want to do ANYTHING that would give you some other opinion. The cover I included is a draft, I am open for your comments. I will also submit them to my Lieutenant (who took your class in Portland about a year or two ago).

I would like to ask you to read through the white packet, and respond with your feelings as soon as it is convenient for you. I promise you, everything you have to say will be regarded as utmost in importance.

Finally, I would like to say, The Landlord Program has been received very well here. There has been a new complex every week qualifying for the metals signs. They are also using our police logo in their advertisements and yellow pages. I have also arranged for our Chamber of Commerce to advertise out of state about the participating apartments (to those who write for information about apartment living in Arizona.) This has made quite an incentive for more complexes to join. They must also continue in an ongoing training with the residents to stay current in the program. They must fill out an application each year to renew their membership in the Crime Free Multi-Housing Program. At this time we require a crime prevention oriented event between mgt, police and tenants at least once per year. If they don't do it, they are no longer in the program. (National Night Out is a good time for such an event.)

Also if a new manager comes into the property, they must send the new manager through the training a.s.a.p. (Here in Arizona, the turnover for managers is similar to that of the tenants). We want the certificate in the leasing office to mean ALOT when an applicant sees it.

Thank you for your time and consideration of these items. I hope you take this in the vein it was intended. It would not have been possible without all of the excellent work you did to get this program developed. I will always give you the credit for that fact, and be indebted for your assistance with our Mesa program.

Sincerely yours,

Timothy L. Zehring

The Mesa Project was made possible through collaborative efforts between the Mesa Police Department and the Tucson Police Department with special thanks to Officer Carla A. Johnson, of the Tucson Police Department.

The Tucson project was made possible through cooperative agreement No. 89-DD-CX-K015, Enhanced Crime Prevention—Phase III, from the Bureau of Justice Assistance, Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice. The Portland project was enabled by cooperative agreements Nos. 87-SD-CX-K003, 89-DD-CX-0007, and 91-DD-CX-0001.

The original edition was adapted in April of 1992 by the Mesa Police Department, from Portland's manual, under the supervision of Sgt. Ron Weber and Lt. Dave Zielonka.

Various parts of this document provide descriptions of legal process. Those descriptions are intended only as general summaries to foster understanding. No part of this manual should be regarded as legal advice or considered a replacement for the landlord's responsibility to be familiar with the law. This manual is distributed with the express understanding that neither the publisher nor the author is engaged in rendering legal services. If legal assistance is required, the services of a competent attorney should be sought. We particularly urge that an experienced attorney be brought into the process in any situation that has the potential to become adversarial.

This manual is intended to address aspects of property management that may be important to the control and prevention of illegal activity on rental property. While we touch on a variety of management issues, we have left out many (prepaid rent, waiting list criteria, and abandoned property disposal, to name three) with which responsible managers should be familiar. We strongly recommend that landlords and managers ensure they have a process to keep informed of changes in the law and the evolution of techniques. In most areas of the country there are local property management associations that play this role.

We request that any errors or significant omissions be noted and forwarded so that corrections in future versions can be made. Send comments to:

We gratefully acknowledge the contributions of the landlords, property managers, law enforcement officers, attorneys, and administrators, in both Portland and Mesa, who helped us adapt the program to the Mesa community.

We especially thank John Campbell who, through tireless and selfless effort, created and nurtured the Landlord Training Program, to the great benefit of Mesa.

15. SUMMARY DESCRIPTION OF PROJECT (See instruction on reverse)

Drug activity affects the quality of life in neighborhoods and police alone cannot solve the problem. The "Landlord Training Program" is designed to involve the community in more effectively combatting drug activity on rental property. This program teaches property owners and managers how to prevent and keep drug activity off their property by teaching landlords their role in keeping neighborhoods healthy; conducting proper tenant screening; developing stronger rental agreements; ongoing property management; eviction issues; and working effectively with the police. The program was first developed and implemented in Portland, Oregon in 1989 with funding from the Bureau of Justice Assistance. Under this cooperative agreement, the "Landlord Training Program" will become available to jurisdictions that are interested in replicating or adapting the program in their local jurisdiction through the provision of regional training opportunities.

SUBJECT: Information to assist in hosting and preparing for the trainings.

The enclosed documents are intended to assist you in marketing and hosting the three-day Landlord Training Program. We recognize that this is a lot of information and we do not expect that you will necessarily need to use all of it. However, we have found that different jurisdictions have different desires in how they prefer to set up their programs. Therefore, we are providing you with a complete set of information for your review. The information is organized into four packets, clipped and labeled accordingly:

1. Outline describing the tasks for a host agency to complete;
2. Materials for marketing to three-day Train-the-Trainer participants;
3. Materials for marketing to local landlords;
4. General overview of the National Landlord Training Program, for additional information.

For each packet of materials, this memo explains what each document is and how to utilize them.

Also, for your own personal information, we have included a copy of the monograph Keeping Drug Activity Out of Rental Property: A Police Guide for Establishing Landlord Training Programs, which is the manual that each of the trainer participants will receive during the training.
